Doctor Profile

Urology/Urological Surgery

Dr Nicholas Campbell

MBBS (Hons), FRACS

Mr Nicholas Campbell is a fellow of the Royal Australasian College of Surgeons, trained in all aspects of general urology.

Nicholas completed advanced training in Urology Oncology Fellowship at the Vancouver Prostate Centre at the end of his Australian fellowship degree. This was under the supervision of Dr Martin Gleave and Dr Larry Goldenberg. This included intensive training in surgery and management of complex prostate cancer.

He continues to maintain strong links to medical training and academia. He is a current investigator for several research trials. He is an Adjunct Clinical Lecturer for Monash University and has been involved in the setting of exams and selection of urology trainees.

Nicholas offers a comprehensive urological service whether it be general urological problems (kidney stones, enlarged prostate) or advanced prostate cancer and other urological cancers.
